Tax 'Favors' Charge Brings Gov. Demand

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus demanded today that Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett "get specific" in any criticism he has of the State Revenue Department.

Bennett, who is opposing Faubus' bid for a fourth term, charged yesterday that some out-of-state corporations have got a tax break from a change in state income tax formulae.

"If Bruce will name any certain company he thinks has benefited we'll check it out," Faubus said.

"If anything improper comes to my attention I'll see that it's straightened out," Faubus said.

Faubus, meeting newsmen in foyer of his office, said Bennett had asked the administration for favors for certain people and might be requested to explain why.

"He asked for some things that just couldn't be done," Faubus said.

"He'll call up, for example the Revenue Department, and say 'I want you to do this and so for Old B uddy here's when it's impossible.'"

Faubus said he was surprised at Bennett's complaint against the Revenue Department because

"most people think (Revenue Commissioner J. Orville) Cheney is too harsh with corporations rather than too easy with them."

The governor said he had not discussed the matter with Cheney, but "I expect Orville will be coming to see me about it soon."

"There are times when the Revenue Department is wrong," Faubus said, "but in the cases that have gone to court it's usually been wrong in trying to collect too much tax rather than too little."

Faubus cited a recent case involving Stephens, Inc. of Little Rock in which the firm protested a tax assessment and was upheld by the Arkansas Supreme Court.

The governor said he was unaware of any tax formula change such as Bennett mentioned.

"It's the easiest thing in the world to say something is wrong in the Revenue Department or the Welfare Department without being specific," Faubus said. "I could say there's something wrong in Bruce's office but he couldn't do anything about it unless I told him what it was."

Faubus then turned to a hunting metaphor to summarize his attitude toward Bennett's charges.

"A scatterload doesn't get many birds and I don't think it will get many votes," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today all signs are that Soviet leaders want some degree of disarmament and want to stop the testing of nuclear weapons—on their own terms.

Eisenhower added at a news conference that the Soviet Union has come a long way from its original demand that testing be stopped simply by a declaration of the responsible governments.

The very fact that they have made the latest concession toward a limited nuclear test control treaty, Eisenhower said, shows that they want to negotiate further.

The President gave this unusually hopeful view of the Soviet attitude toward negotiations now under way at Geneva in answering reporters' questions about test-ban problems arising out of his joint declaration Tuesday with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Camp David, Md.

Eisenhower and Macmillan offered the Soviet Union a short-term moratorium on small underground tests of nuclear weapons if the Soviets would sign a treaty providing for a prohibition on all other tests policed by a rigid inspection system.

The proposed moratorium, Eisenhower said, would not necessarily be binding on his successor in the White House next Jan. 20. The moratorium would not be a part of any treaty reached at Geneva.

Since Eisenhower and Macmillan think a treaty might be negotiated in about 90 days, a moratorium beginning at the end of June would run for approximately six months of a new president's term.

To put it another way, the Eisenhower administration is prepared to offer the Soviets in the nuclear test talks at Geneva a moratorium until next Jan. 20.

In response to a direct question, the President said he believes it might be possible to decide at the Paris summit meeting beginning May 16 on one of the outstanding East-West issues in the nuclear test negotiations at Geneva—the issue of on-site inspection. This means the number of times that inspectors in the Soviet Union—or another country—could investigate suspicions that the Soviet—or some other—government was holding sneak tests.

The Soviet Union has wanted to limit inspections in any one country to three or four a year, officials say. The United States has insisted that out of 100 suspicious events, about 20 should be inspected and any evidence of cheating should open the way for an inspection.

Eisenhower said the inspection issue might be discussed at the summit—with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. It could even be decided there if the discussion went well, he said.

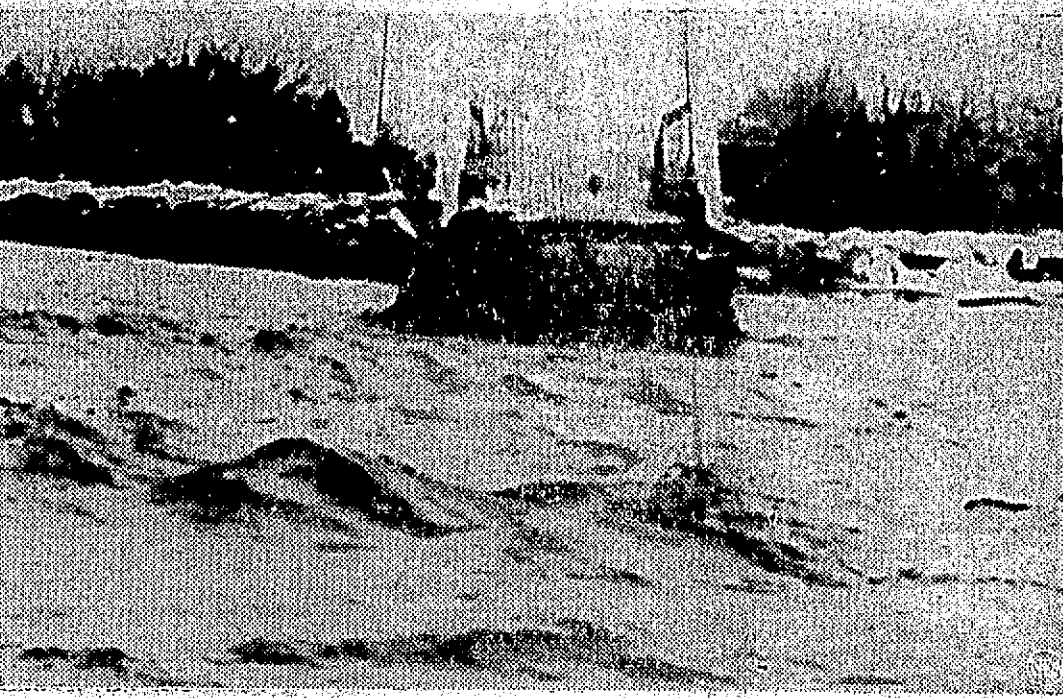

Eisenhower and Macmillan stayed at Camp David overnight after announcing results of their discussions, and returned to Washington this morning.

They are known to have discussed also strategy for the Paris summit meeting, but their Camp David statement disclosed only decisions on the nuclear test problem.

British and U.S. experts were not sure how the Soviets would react to the new compromise plan. The Soviets wanted an indefinite moratorium on small underground weapons tests.

The U.S.-British announcement specified no time, but the plan was expected to limit the information moratorium to a year or so.

Eisenhower and Macmillan declared that their aim is ultimate. Continued on Page Six.

Hendrix to Remain All White School

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—Hendrix College will continue as an all-white school, the Methodist-supported institution's board of trustees announced yesterday.

The board said "certain individuals and groups" had asked it to consider the advisability of integrating Hendrix at an early date.

An executive committee of the board conducted a year-long study of the matter.

In a statement, the board said it felt the majority of Arkansas Methodists want the 75-year-old college to admit white students only.

Dr. Marshall T. Steel, Hendrix president, said he agreed with the board's action. He said a recent resolution of the Arkansas Methodist Student Movement calling for integration of Hendrix had been misinterpreted as the expression of the school's student body.

Methodist Bishop Paul E. Martin of Little Rock, a Hendrix trustee, said the board's announcement does not indicate neglect of educational needs of Negroes. He said Philander Smith College for Negroes at Little Rock also operated by Methodists, "holds the same accreditation that Hendrix does from the North Central Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools."

4 Negroes Lose Appeals for Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Four Arkansas Negroes, condemned to death for the murder of a white man, have lost another appeal.

Three judges of the Eighth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the death sentences. The ruling said admission of the Negroes' confessions at their trials was justified.

The Negroes are Rogers Boone, 16, Willie Henry Byrd, 23, James Moore, 22, and James Albert Boyd, 21, all of Miller County, Ark. They were accused of killing M. R. Hamm, 78, near Texarkana on May 9, 1956, in a robbery that netted $10.

All four were convicted and sentenced to die, but that conviction was overturned by the state Supreme Court. They were convicted again at new trials and again sentenced to die.

$1 Hour Wage Minimum to Be on Ballot

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A proposal which would result in a $1 an hour minimum wage in Arkansas will be on the November general election ballot, a labor leader said yesterday. He predicted it would be approved by voters.

A statewide drive to obtain names on ballot petitions was announced earlier this year.

George Ellison of Fort Smith, director of the state AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), said about 20,000 names have been obtained on petitions to put the proposed wage and hour law on the ballot.

About 22,000 are needed. Ellison said names would be added until July, when the petitions must be filed, "in order to get as many as possible."

The act would set an 80-cent per hour minimum wage the first year after its adoption. This would go up to 90 cents the second year and reach $1 the third year.

The measure would require time and one-half pay for all work over 48 hours in one week the first year, all over 44 hours the second year and all over 40 hours the third year.

Farm labor, domestic help and persons working for companies or individuals employing less than three persons would be exempted.

The only Arkansas minimum wage law now on the books applies only to women. It sets a rate of $1 per day for unskilled labor and $1.25 for skilled workers.

Rights Bill to Senate With Changes Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today took up the House-passed civil rights bill, acting swiftly after its Judiciary Committee recommended numerous changes in the measure.

The motion to bring up the bill for debate immediately was offered by Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. It carried by a lopsided roll call vote of 71-17.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern bloc of the legislation, told newsmen in advance he felt it would be futile to resist the motion to take it up.

Johnson told newsmen "it is obvious we are facing lengthy debate" on the bill.

However, both he and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, indicated any move to put a time limit on debate would be held off until next week.

Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) was expected to move to call up the measure today.

The House passed the bill last Thursday. The Senate immediately referred it to its Judiciary Committee for consideration, putting aside a broader measure it had been debating for six weeks.

If the Senate passes the House bill without changing it, it goes directly to the President. But if the Senate accepts any revisions to the Judiciary Committee—a this seems inevitable—it goes back to the House, where Southern legislators likely can delay it more weeks or months.

Every section of the House bill was amended by the committee, but only two changes were major. All are subject to action by the Senate.

One of those amendments, offered by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), broadened a section of the House bill providing criminal penalties for interfering by force or threats with court orders for desegregation of public schools.

Under Dirksen's amendment, adopted by a 9-6 vote, it would be a crime to obstruct any federal court order, including injunctions issued in labor disputes. The Senate adopted such an amendment to its own bill by a 65-10 vote on March 11, then voted 49-35 to kill the whole section.

The other major amendment approved by the committee revised the voting referee section of the House measure to permit state officials to sit in on Negro registration hearings before court-appointed referees.

CHAPTER XXXIII

It was 20 minutes after five. It would still be dark outside. Bokker, about to put away his winnings, suddenly looked at the bartender. "This is more money than I'm used to having—and I haven't even got a gun."

"Nobody'll rob you—not in Pawnee City," said the mayor. "I'd feel better with a gun."

Bokker looked at the bartender. "Do you happen to have a Navy gun I could buy?"

"No, but I'll lend you one," the bartender said. "If it'll make you feel better."

Bokker peeled off two twenties from his roll of bills. "I'll feel better buying it and, here—the drinks for everyone and keep the change."

The last spectators of the poker game swarmed to the bar. The bartender served the drinks and nine brought out a somewhat rusted Navy Colt. But Bokker, examining it, saw that the caps on the nipples were good and that each chamber in the cylinder was loaded. He thrust the gun under the waistband of his trousers. "Good night," he said to the group at large.

"I'll walk with you, Phil," said Shay. "I need the air."

Shay's usually ebullient spirits had seeped out of him. Bokker had never seen him so discouraged. They left the saloon and started down the wooden sidewalk toward Bokker's place. Shay walked slumped, listless, but Bokker's beside him was taut, strained.

In the east the sky was becoming gray.

Shay said, "I'm through, Phil. I wrote out checks for three thousand dollars that I can't meet, and I haven't got a dollar in my pocket. If it wasn't for—"

"Ruth?"

Shay was silent a moment. Then he said, "She's a good girl. Phil. If I wasn't the kind of man I am—" He laughed hollowly. "She needs a man like you Phil."

"Things between us have reached a low point," Bokker said cautiously.

They had reached Bokker's office. Shay suddenly gripped Bokker's arm. "Phil, that money you won—I could pay off the mayor."

Bokker was taken back. "It's just a loan, Phil." Shay went on. "I'll give you an IOU. It's just until I can buy another herd. Time's all I need. A herd's coming in day after tomorrow. I'll buy it."

"You can't make that much profit on a herd."

"Yes, I can. I made 32 hundred on the first one I bought. I paid $20 a steer and had the railroad agent make out the invoice for twenty-five. I'll work out a deal and pay you off."

"Are you serious, Paul?" exclaimed Bokker. "You ought to know by now that I wouldn't be a party to any deal such as that."

"Then never mind how I make the money. Just lend me the eighteen hundred."

"No," Bokker said firmly. "Money doesn't mean anything to you. You'll only get into another game and—"

"You won that money," snarled Shay angrily. "You didn't earn it. You won't be any poorer than you were a few hours ago."

"I've been poor most of my life," Bokker snapped. "The sum you ask is a lot of money to me. All right, I won it in a poker game. But it's still a lot of money."

"You won't help me out, then?" "I don't think I owe you anything, Paul."

Shay snarled and whirled away. He clomped angrily down the wooden sidewalk.

And now Bokker was faced with it. Was the man still in his bedroom? Was he waiting with drawn gun?

Bokker drew the Navy gun he had gotten from the bartender. He turned the knob of his front door, swung the door inward. He called into the dark interior.

"I'm coming in!"

There was no reply from inside. Bokker waited a moment, then entered. He stood inside the door, gun pointed at the door leading to the bedroom.

There was an odor of stale cigar smoke in the room. He heard no sound.

He called once more, "I'm coming in!"

There was still no reply. Bokker took out a match, struck it and then tossed it through the door into the bedroom. He followed instantly.

The room was empty.

The bed was mussed. There were cigar ashes and two cigar butts on the floor, the only mementoes of the man who had waited there for Bokker earlier.

Bokker awoke stiff and sore in every muscle of his body. Or so it seemed. He got up, stretched and winced as pain lanced through his head. He had almost forgotten the wound in his head.

He looked at himself in a tiny mirror over his washstand. He could use a shave, but was not in the mood for it. He ewashed carefully, then left his office to cross the street to the restaurant.

It was a few minutes to nine when he left the restaurant. He stood outside for a moment, then became aware that Ruth Compton was standing in the open doorway of her shop. He started across the street, but before he reached the far sidewalk, Ruth had gone back into her shop. The door, however, remained open.

Bokker started to pass, then she called from inside, "Phil!"

Surprised, he turned and entered the shop. She came forward, closed the door behind him.

"Paul's left," she said. "He's gone for good."

Bokker exclaimed, "He ran out!"

Mrs. Charles Wallace Martin

On Saturday evening, March 26, the Washington Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Mary Ruth Calhoun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Calhoun of Washington, to Charles Wallace Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Martin of Hope.

The Rev. Carlton Roberts of Hope, uncle of the bridegroom, and the Rev. Ed Golden, pastor of the Washington Baptist Church, were the officiating ministers. Mrs. Moss Rowe of Washington, organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Charles Downs of Little Rock, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Jerry Martin, brother of the bridegroom, and Glenn Calhoun, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles in the seven-branched candelabra prior to the double-ring ceremony. Other after decorations included Southern smilax and baskets of white stocks and jade fern.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length dress of white tulle with lace over tulle fashioned with a fitted bodice which formed a deep-pointed waistline and a scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt had three tiers of deep scalloped lace ruffles. With the short sleeved dress the bride wore short white gloves. Her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and rhinestones. The only jewelry worn by the bride was a single drop pearl necklace, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with a purple throated white orchid.

Miss Cherry Etter of Washington was the bride's maid of honor, while the bridesmaids were Mrs. James Pearson of North Little Rock, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rowena Rowe of Sundown, Texas. They were identically attired in dresses of aqua silk organza over tulle. Each had a bout neckline and a deep V back, and its bouffant skirt had a wide sash which formed a large bow in back. The attendants' flowers were feathered pink carnations.

Terrel Martin of Hope served as best man. Don Fuller and Tommy Montgomery, both of Hope, were groomsmen. Ushers were Teddy Messer of Hope, and Luther Martin of Benton.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Calhoun wore a light blue suit with black accessories. Mrs. Martin, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories. Each had a pink carnation corsage.

A reception in the church annex followed the wedding. The bride's table was covered with a full ruffled white net cloth over tulle. It was centered with a cierge holding white Dutch iris, candytuft, and white pom poms.

Serving the tiered wedding cake were Miss Sarah Alice Page and Mrs. Richard Warner, aunts of the bride and both of Dallas, Tex. Presiding over the punch bowl were Mrs. W. H. Bolding of North Little Rock, and Miss Janet Roberts of Hope, cousins of the bridegroom. Miss Mary Margaret Haynes of Washington was in charge of the bride's book.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Page of Texarkana; Richard Warner, Miss Carolyn Warner, Miss Sarah June Etter, Miss Judy Amour, all of Dallas, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Calhoun, Kenny and Beverly Calhoun, all of Carthage, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander of Sundown, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Martin of Wake Village, Tex.; Thomas Roberts of North Little Rock; Miss Diana Gammon of Camden; Arland Lyons of Nashville, and many friends and relatives from Hope.

For travel the bride wore a gray suit with black accessories and pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet at her shoulder. The newlyweds are now making their home in Hope at 317 N. Main.

My Dad insists on coming to get me after a dance even though I could get a ride with a group of friends. At a party I have to leave an hour early. This makes it hard to tell my friends.

I consider myself a person of standards, and feel I should be treated like the rest of my classmates.

To give a party for my Mom and Dad to meet my friends would be impossible because we haven't any room—M.G.

Dear M.G.: You wouldn't be so rebellious if you could read the hundreds of letters sent me by desperate teen-age girls who find themselves pregnant. In most cases the parents were either over-indulgent or indifferent to their welfare. These girls felt, as you do, that they could look out for themselves. Yet here they are, transformed by the forces of nature into poor, hunted little creatures who don't know which way to turn.

Sometimes of killing themselves. Others have fled home. Few love the boys involved. All fear society in general and their parents in particular. They can be helped, of course, for there is always a way out. But it takes a lot of doing to find the way and heal the wounded hearts. Let's be realistic. This is what your parents are trying to save you from. That's why your mother says no to your plea for a date. It is because of this that your father brings you home from dances. Time flies. You'll be on your own before too long. Meanwhile, be thankful for parents who love you enough to care what happens to you. I'm sending you my "Code for Teen-agers."

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been dating this man who works in the same office for two years. All of a sudden we quit dating for about a month, then he started asking for dates again. If he sees me with someone else, he'll go around for days without speaking or he'll make wise-cracks about my not suffering over our break-up. I would appreciate any advice that you could give me on getting him back or at least understanding him.—Lonely Heart

Dear Lonely Heart: If women could understand the ways of men there would be fewer broken hearts in this world. Your man, as you describe him, hardly seems worth the trouble. If he's moody now, what will he be later? Marriage isn't going to change him.

Why not interest yourself in some other men? There are plenty of nice ones foot loose and fancy free. Incidentally, that's the surest way to get your off-again-on-again beau back—if you still want him.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My boy friend took me to his friend's house to swim in his indoor swimming pool. I was so embarrassed because my legs are kind of fat. I've tried everything and nothing seems to help. What should I do?—Wondering.

Dear Wondering: Go light on intake and strong on exercise. Buy a caloric counter and join a dancing class.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her in care of this newspaper.

What Would You Do With $20,000?

NEW YORK (AP)—What would you do with a windfall of $20,000? Vernon O. Johnson bought a 13-year-old bus, converted it into a mobile home for himself, his wife and their eight children—and set out to see the world.

Johnson, 39, a real estate man, and his family lived in Santa Barbara, Calif.

When a business deal produced an unexpected $20,000 profit, Johnson decided to pack up and start moving.

"We always believe in living up to the hilt," he said on his arrival Tuesday with his family after a leisurely, month-long cross-country junket.

Today the Johnsons and their bus-home will leave for Italy aboard the liner Vulcania.

From Italy, they'll tour southern Europe. The summer months will be spent in Scandinavia.

The winter months will find them visiting Egypt, India and the Far East.

The Johnson children range in age from 2 to 17. Christie, the oldest, was just graduated from high school.

As for the others papa Johnson said: "We'll be doing some studying along the way, and if we stay any place long enough we'll put them in school. But we think they'll get a pretty good education as it is."

How long will they be gone on their world tour?

"At first we thought the trip might take a year," Johnson replied, "But if it takes two years, we'll stay that long."

Floods Lash Midwest in Winter Wake

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Early spring floods menaced road areas of the Midwest today, in the wake of one of the most severe winters and heavy snow in years.

Hundreds of families were temporarily homeless and others marooned. Some farms were isolated. Thousands of acres of farm land and lowlands were inundated. Floodwaters from scores of swollen and ice-blocked rivers and streams spilled into dozens of communities in a nine-state zone stretching across Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Nebraska and Iowa appeared hardest hit. Nebraska arranged to have seven counties in the eastern section declared disaster areas. The flood section in the corner to an area west of Omaha. The eastern third of Nebraska is described as "big sheet of water." At one point the Platte River, which is causing most of the trouble, was reported seven to eight miles wide.

Helicopters were sent by the Army and the National Guard to rescue scores trapped by the surging waters in Nebraska. Many families were evacuated from Fremont, a city of 14,000 near Omaha, and nearby Valley, a town of 1,200, and from Columbus, a town of 8,000 in the east central section.

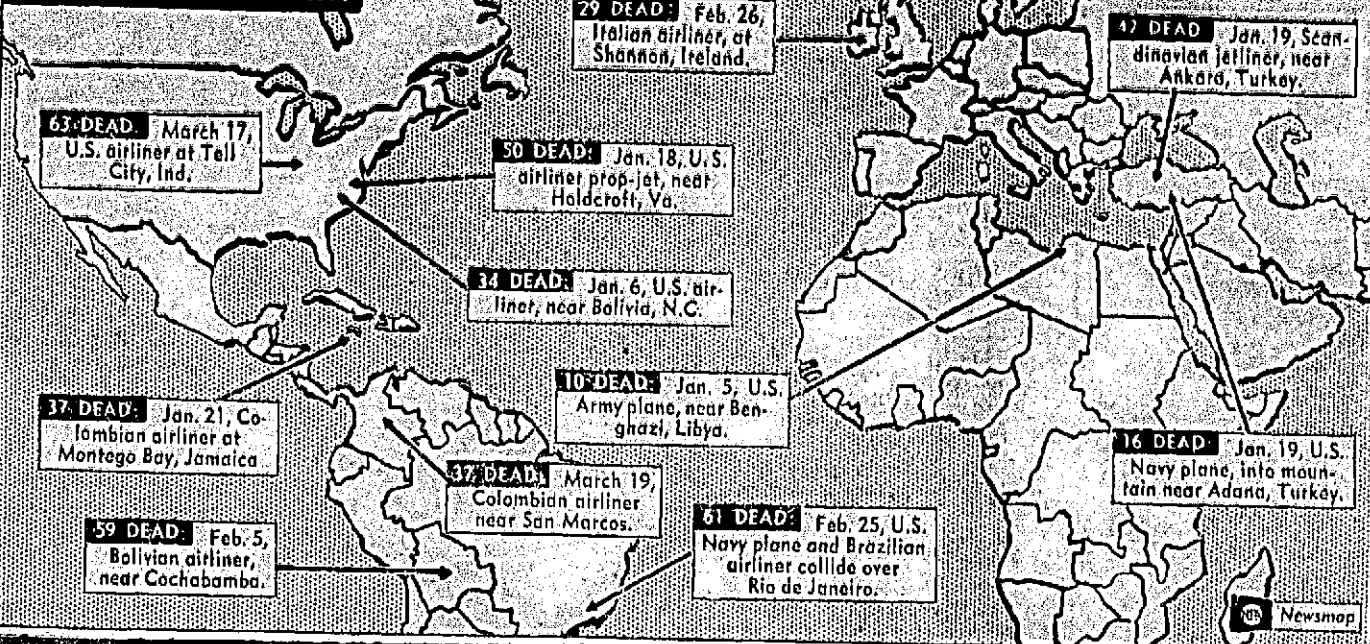

The high waters closed scores of highways in Nebraska and Missouri and in some other parts of the flood belt and caused re-routing of some trains.

Mild weather since last weekend, plus rains the last couple of days, triggered the damaging overflows.

Violent weather raked the midlands Tuesday and during the night but the storms diminished and rain appeared nearly ended in most areas.

Tornadoes ripped across parts of Iowa and Missouri. Severe thunderstorms pounded sections of

because nothing could be finer

Few among us are fortunate enough to be able to select a car on the basis of excellence alone, without regard to cost.

If we could, the rankings of America's cars would show the incomparable Lincoln Continental in first place. For it is a fact that among all cars in the top bracket of price, the Lincoln Continental is by far the first choice, the ultimate in motorcars.

ly "the total prohibition of all nuclear weapons tests, under effective international control."

They said, however, that in the present state of scientific knowledge "there are great technical problems involved in setting up a control system which would be effective in detecting underground nuclear tests" below the size of 10 kilotons.

That is a relatively small explosion as nuclear weapons go today, though it is about the force of the first atomic bomb dropped in World War II.

It was because of this lack of detection ability that Eisenhower declared in February that the United States was prepared to sign only a treaty which would prohibit tests that could be policed by an adequate inspection system.

The Soviet Union replied it would accept the more limited treaty if Britain and the United States would agree to a moratorium on the small underground blasts not covered by the treaty.

Eisenhower and Macmillan said that a number of critical problems must be solved in order "to achieve the early conclusion of a treaty." Among these problems they listed "an adequate quota of on-site inspections, the composition of the control commission, control post staffing, and voting matters, as well as arrangements for peaceful purposes detentions."

Iraq Events God News for the West

Foreign News Commentary By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign Editor

For nearly a year now events have been taking place in Iraq which combine to make good news for the West.

Maj. Gen. Abdul Karim, Kassem, Iraq's premier and strongman, has been cracking down on the Communists.

This does not mean that Kassem is moving toward Western alignment. Rather, it appears to mean that he is moving away from his Soviet ties toward neutralism. And a neutral Iraq, with its oil and its port of Basra controlling the entrance to the Persian Gulf, is vastly to be preferred to one aligned with Russia.

The latest clear indication that Kassem is clipping Communist wings came in the announcement that the death sentence pronounced on former Premier Fadhil Al-Jamali has been reduced to 10 years of imprisonment.

Execution Key Plank

Jamali's early execution had been one of the key planks in the Communist platform.

Kassem's growing disenchantment with his Communist allies first became apparent last July.

On July 5, 1959, Kassem ordered that the Communist-dominated people's resistance "move" to a place itself under army control. This was a semi-military group of about 35,000 members, most of whom were club-swinging youths who took over the streets of Baghdad and spread terror after dark.

But last July, Kassem finally cracked down.

In that same month, he shook up his cabinet, reducing the powers of Dr. Ibrahim Kubba, his pro-Communist minister of economics.

Drops Altogether

In February of this year, Kubba was dropped from the cabinet altogether.

Also in this year, while licensing other political parties in preparation for a return to parliamentary government, the Kassem regime refused a license to Iraq's main Communist Party. Instead, it licensed a splinter group referred to by the main party as a "disrupting gang."

Control of Iraq would provide international Communism with its most important mid-eastern plum, and fulfill the Soviet Union's historic wish for an outlet to the Indian Ocean.

Time still must tell whether Kassem can remove the Communist influence or whether he did indeed go too far.

Negro Boycotts in Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Extra police units patrolled downtown Baton Rouge today as hundreds of Negro college students boycotted merchants and ringed the front of the skyscraper capitol in protests against segregation.

Officers in charge of state police patrols at the capitol estimated the crowd at 800 and 1,000, nearly all from the all-Negro Southern University.

After a brief prayer meeting and a talk by a ministerial student, the crowd dispersed.

About 10 white youths paraded in front of the Negroes while they waited for buses.

The white boys carried signs saying "States Rights and Segregation" and "If You Don't Like It Here, Go Back to Africa."

Corning GOP Leader Dies in Missouri

CORNING, Ark. (AP)—Charles R. Black, 74, Corning lumberman and state Republican leader, died at a Poplar Bluff, Mo., hospital Monday night.

Black was president of the Black Lumber Co. here.

He was a longtime member of the State Republican Committee and in 1948 was the Republican candidate for governor, opposing former Gov. Sid McMath for a first term.

Black was mayor of Corning in 1916-20 and in 1942-46.

Besides his lumber business, he engaged in cotton ginning, rice growing and real estate.

Survivors include two sons, a brother and two sisters.

The funeral will be held at First Baptist Church here at 1:30 a.m. Friday. Burial will be in Corning Cemetery.

Reynolds Donates to State Schools

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Officials of Reynolds Metals Co. today made a 1960 contribution of 6,500 to the Arkansas Foundation of Associated Colleges.

The check was presented to Dr. Marshall T. Steel, president of Hendrix College and also AFAC president.

Steel said AFAC had been given $895,175 by 641 firms and individuals since Nov. 18, 1954, when the first gift was received.

During 1959, 480 new oil wells were successfully completed in Arkansas.

TAKE TWO—No, Yoko Tani doesn't have a twin sister. She's looking in a mirror. The Oriental actress was on hand to attend a Rome premier of her new film, "White Shadows."

TIPSY TURN—This looks easy the way Bud Nilsson does it, but the maneuver is tough on poles and bones for anyone less expert than instructor of the China Peak, Calif., Ski School.

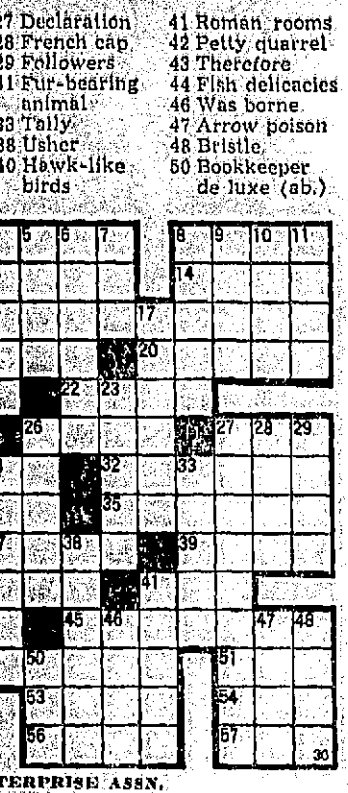

COURTROOM COMEDY PROPS—Court Bailiff Nick Climaco of Cleveland, Ohio, gets a laugh whenever he looks at these grim objects—a pair of crutches and an ankle-to-hip brace.

What Hope Star Newsboys Saw in Louisiana

Girdling Oak and Planting Pine Trees

The machine is made up of a motor with straps to carry on one's back, a flexible cable with a rotary blade that will cut a ring around the tree. Pine seedlings have to be hand planted. Hap is using a tree planting bar to plant the seedlings.

He has started 20 acres similar to this one on Alton Foster's farm near Saratoga.

Erwin Baker, another girdling contractor has finished plots of 320 acres each on three of B. W. Edwards' farms one for En. W. Thompson and one for Bill Hood. Henry Wolff did 10 acres of Timber Stand Improvement.

Clarence and Wade Gilbert are constructing 20 thousand feet of terraces. William Gilbert has finished 10,000 feet of terraces. Ernest Simpson completed 1200 feet of V-type field drains that will drain 60 acres of land.

Although it is still too wet to work most places were are getting several requests.

IN THE PHOTOGRAPH ABOVE THE BOYS ARE POSED in a bamboo forest in the Jungle Garden on Avery Island. Washburn would have called it a rain-forest, for that's what it was doing when he made the picture — raining, hard.

TOP RIGHT — THIS TRADE MARK OF SOUTH LOUISIANA — Spanish moss draped on all the trees of the forest. This picture was shot on the road to Cypress Point, where the boys got their first view of the Gulf of Mexico. It is 20 miles south of New Iberia, in the vicinity of Weeks Island.

BOTTOM LEFT — BANDIT GEESE! ON OUR TOUR OF the Jungle Garden on Avery Island we encountered these wild American geese which really are tame and have the amusing habit of holding up tourists for food. When they found we had none they honked angrily and got in front of the cars and pecked the tires.

Says Nixon to Change Few Policies

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be absolutely stupid to stand pat on all of the administration's current policies in campaigning for the presidency.

At a news conference, Eisenhower also asserted all the signs indicate that the Soviet Union now does want a degree of disarmament and a halt to testing of nuclear weapons, but on Soviet terms.

As for Nixon, at this point a sure bet to win the Republican presidential nomination, a reporter noted that the vice president in recent speeches has said he will seek election on the basis of an expanded program of his own, rather than on Eisenhower administration policies alone.

Eisenhower was asked whether Nixon now is free to set forth his own views or whether the vice president has had that right for the last seven years.

Eisenhower, who has publicly declared his support of Nixon, replied that the world moves on and that Nixon would be absolutely stupid to go simply as far as the current administration's policy on various matters and then stop.

Eisenhower went on to say that if he himself were seeking the presidency now he certainly would be looking for new ways to do so. He added that if Nixon didn't do that, he would be completely foolish.

Also in the political field, Eisenhower said in response to a question that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would be completely acceptable to him as the GOP nominee for vice president. But Eisenhower added promptly there are a score of Republicans, including Rockefeller, who would be acceptable to him as Nixon's running mate. He did not name any of the others.

The President met with newsmen shortly after returning to Washington from Camp David, Md., where he and Macmillan, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, had two days of talks on a nuclear weapons tests and other problems.

Frisco Abandons Passenger Runs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Frisco Railroad notified the Interstate Commerce Commission on Tuesday it will abandon its last passenger trains between St. Louis and Memphis on April 30.

There is one train daily in each direction. The Frisco said they lost $79,000 in 1957 and more than $82,000 in both 1958 and 1959.

Thirty-six points on the 305-mile route through southeast Missouri and northeast Arkansas will be left without passenger train service. The Illinois Central has runs along the east side of the Mississippi River.

TV Picture Leads Police to Slayer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A police officer testified at a trial yesterday that a televised picture of a knife led to the arrest of Clarence Stewart Jr., 22, Negro, on charges of murdering a white merchant.

North Little Rock Police Lt. Fred C. Hammer said the knife was found in an auto supply store where 20-year-old William N. Caldwell was found stabbed to death Jan. 8, 1959.

The knife was shown on television newscasts and a tip resulting from that led to Stewart's arrest, Hammer said.

Testimony in Stewart's first degree murder trial began yesterday after an all-white jury of six men and six women was seated. The jury was not completed until both sides had exhausted their challenges. An extra jury panel had to be called.

Other witnesses yesterday included officers and Dr. Howard A. Dismuth, Pulaski County Coroner, who testified on their investigations.

The state seeks the death penalty for Stewart who has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. State Hospital doctors have ruled the Scott Negro sane.

C of C Survey During Summer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce population survey is expected to begin by early summer, after preliminary results from the federal census are in.

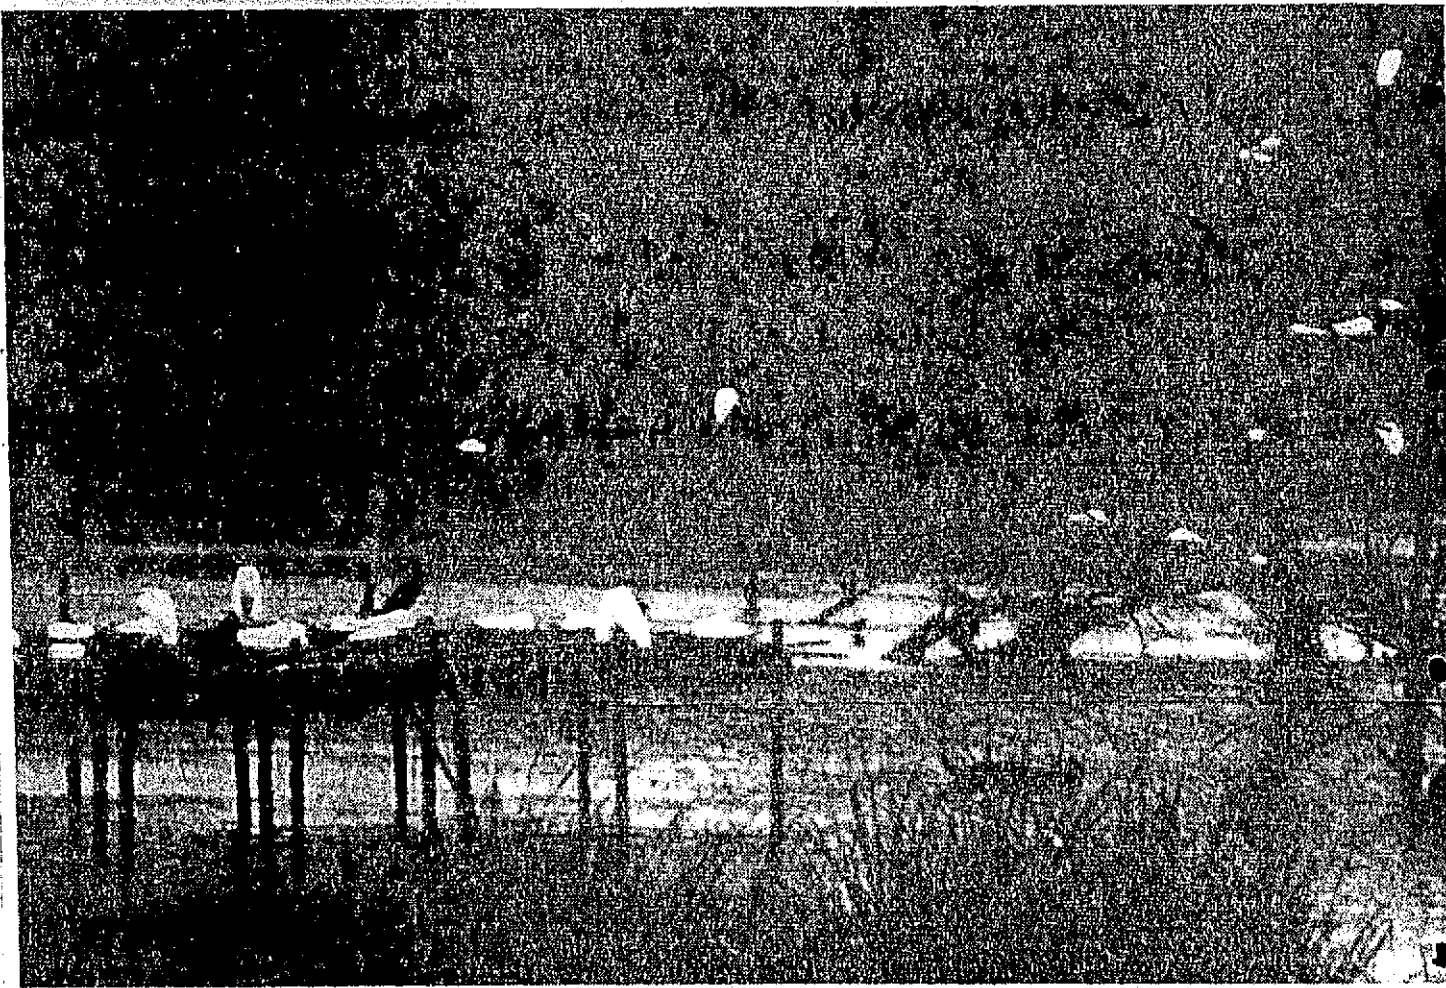

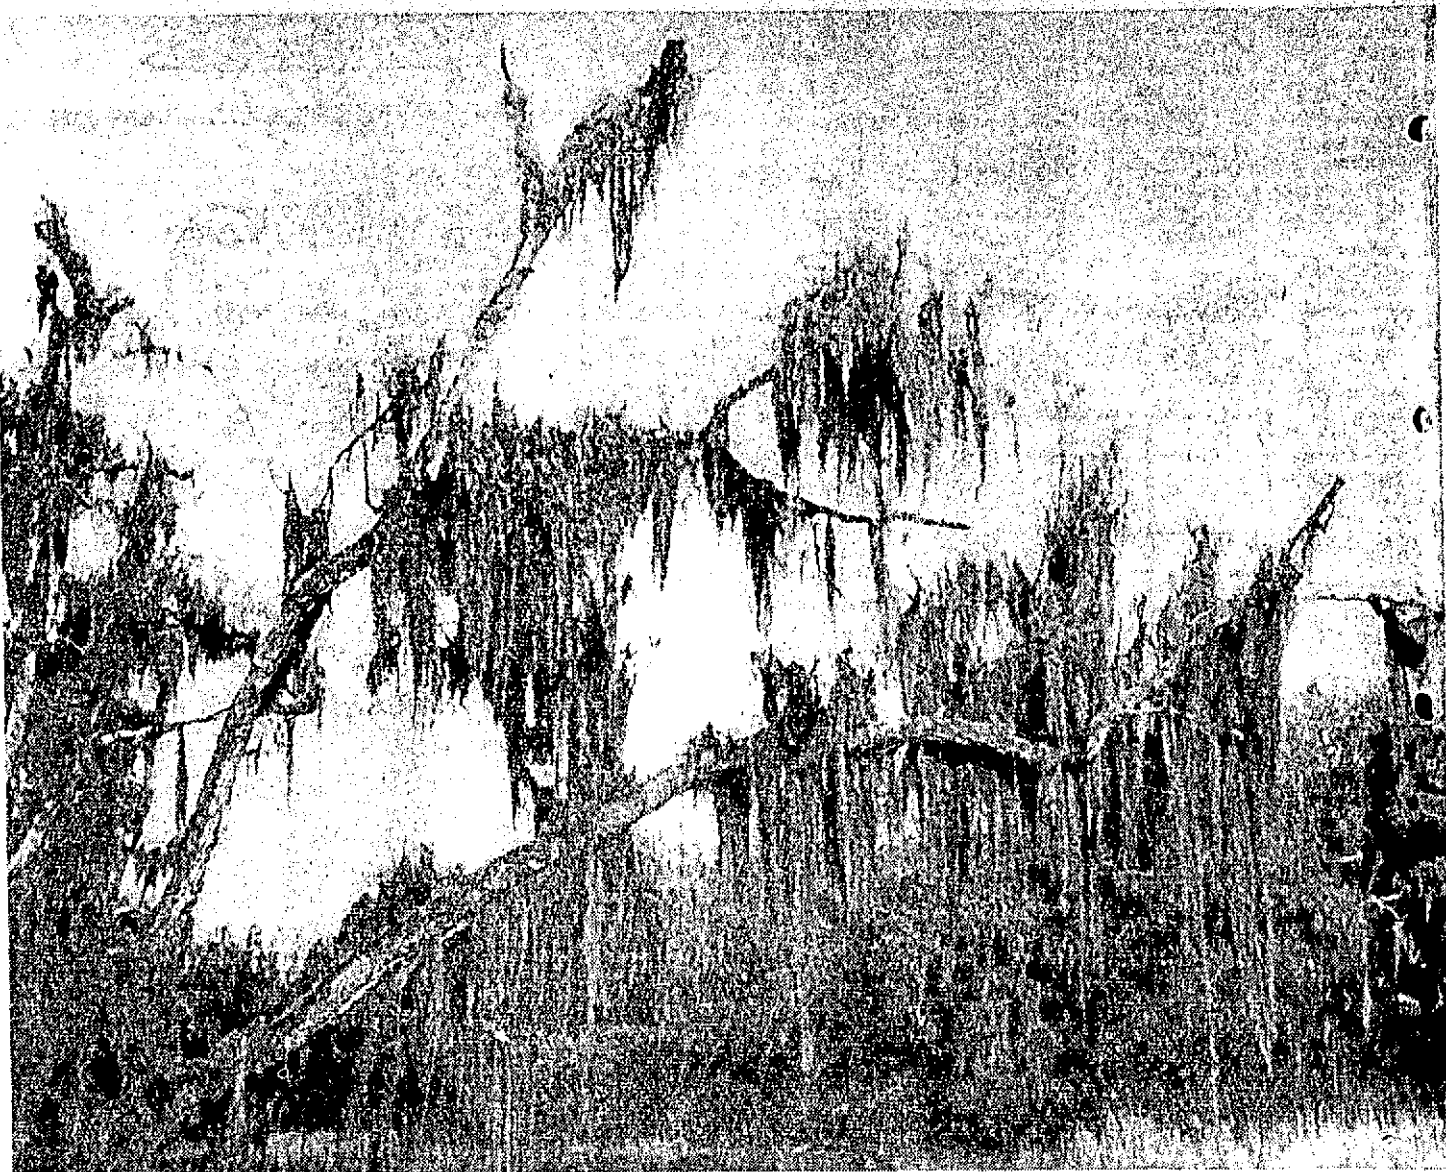

Frank Cantrell, the state Chamber's executive secretary, said yesterday that the Chamber survey will be on the type of population shifts, rather than the loss or gain of population which the census will show. But he said the Chamber study will cover preliminary census information.

The Chamber's objective, Cantrell said, is to find out what type of population the state is losing. If any. The survey also will cover population shifts within the state.

The Chamber, which first discussed the survey several months ago, feels that industrialization has arrested population loss, except possibly in lower income brackets.

Arkansas' population now is estimated at about 1,800,000 persons.

The Iceland Krona is worth 6.44 against $ 1 operation.

Charges U.S. Workers Used in Campaigns

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic senator and a Republican magazine have traded charges that government-paid employees are being used for political campaign purposes.

The Republican National Committee publication "Battle Line" raised the question Tuesday night whether Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) had Ralph A. Dungan, staff member of the Senate Labor Committee, do some campaigning for him in West Virginia. Dungan denied he had.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) tried unsuccessfully to get the Senate to cut out of a money bill $181,000 in increased administrative expenses for the office of Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller.

Douglas, a candidate for reelection this year, told his colleagues that Mueller wanted to "hire additional political speech writers to help him in denouncing 'left-wing spenders' among the Democrats."

"Battle Line" quoted Time magazine as saying that after Kennedy campaigned in West Virginia in mid-March, he left Dungan behind "to work on the unionists."

Dungan said he rode to West Virginia in Kennedy's plane to get a chance to discuss committee problems with the senator, who hasn't been in Washington much recently.

Dungan said he didn't do any campaigning, but he did not join in any organized activity and did not sit in on strategy meetings.

Would Expand Service

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Cleveland County Telephone Co. today asked the Arkansas Public Service Commission for authority to expand service to Rowell and adjacent rural territory. The application said the firm plans to convert its present system to dial operation.

Cuba Soothed About Franchise

MIAMI (AP)—International League officials promised today that the Havana franchise would remain in Cuba — but there still were signs of unrest in the loop.

"We have absolutely no plans or decisions to move or lose the Havana franchise," said U. President Frank "Snag" Shaughnessy. "There is no question in my mind that we'll be in Havana this season."

The Dallas Times Herald said Tuesday the league had decided to move the Havana franchise to either Newark or Jersey City. The Times Herald story, by Bud Shrake, said the franchise would be moved because of pressure from minor league czar George Trautman.

Bobby Maduro, president of the Havana club, said he talked to Shaughnessy Monday and the subject was not mentioned. "There is absolutely no truth to it," he said.

Levine Changes to Chancellor Race

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Sen. Sam Levine of Pine Bluff today withdrew pledges for renomination to his Senate seat and filed as a candidate for Fourth District chancellor.

Levine announced Saturday he had decided to try for the judgeship.

He previously had qualified as a candidate for Senate renomination.

Levine has served a total of 14 years in the House and Senate. Two others have filed for the position he is seeking: John E. Hooker of Pine Bluff and Joe Morrison of Stuttgart.

The successful candidate will preside over the district's First Division.

Chancellor Lawrence Dawson, now serving in the First Division by appointment, is a candidate for the newly-created Second Division judgeship.

The Fourth Chancery District is composed of Arkansas, Cleveland, Jefferson and Lincoln Counties.

Gas Firm Files for Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mississippi River Fuel Corp. of St. Louis, which wholesales natural gas to 15 utilities in the Missouri-Illinois-Arkansas area south of St. Louis, filed an $2 per cent rate increase schedule with the Power Commission yesterday.

The pipeline company proposed to make the new rates effective May 15 and said they would produce $2,397,000 in added revenue yearly.

Mississippi River Fuel already is collecting a rate increase calculated at $3,079,000 a year but the Power Commission has never given final approval and it is subject to refund.
